

SISTER GETS HALF LEBAUDY'S ESTATE

Wife Who Killed 'Emperor of Sahara' Receives Sixth, or $2,455,033.

THIRD IS LEFT JAQUELINE

Fortune Lists 113,312 Shares of Stock in Great Bolivian Silver Mines.

After months of litigation and the expenditure of thousands of dollars, the estate of Jacques Lebaudy finally has been settled and in a few days checks will be turned over to the former widow and her daughter, now Jacqueline Lebaudy Sudreau and Margaret Lebaudy Sudreau. The sister of Lebaudy, Countess de Fere, also will come in for her share, which will be half of the estate. Jacqueline receives one-third or $4,955,076.33, and the mother one-sixth, or $2,455,033.15.

The total estate was $12,388,609.67, which was reduced by expenses of $3,955,870.40, making the net to be divided $7,432,739.27.

The debts include a loss sustained in foreign exchange on French and English securities before the executors had charge of the property. This loss was $4,988,083.33. The income tax for the State is $307,899.71.

Jaqueline also received Phoenix Lodge at Westbury, where her father was shot by her mother three years ago.

Much of the Lebaudy estate came to the former "Emperor of the Sahara" from his mother, who was the wife of the sugar king of France.

Some of the stocks and securities in the report are 113,312 shares in the Cia Huanchaca, Bolivia, silver mines. The British Government holds £40,413 for war duty on the Lebaudy estate in England. Securities of Norway are valued at $165,206.72; Denmark, $137,539.04; France, $4,507,356.07; England, $2,388,191.78.

WOMAN SHOTS SELF IN LOBBY OF ANSONIA

Mrs. Pauli, Former Resident of Hotel, in Serious Condition

Mrs. Emma Pauli, 60, wife of Hermann Pauli of the Apthorp Apartments, Broadway and Seventy-ninth street, shot herself three times last night as she was sitting in an alcove off the main lobby of the Hotel Ansonia, Broadway and Seventy-fourth street. She was taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where it was said her condition was serious.

The lobby of the Ansonia was crowded when Mrs. Pauli, who lived there until four months ago, walked in and took a seat where she could command a view of the street in front of the hotel. A boy recognized her and spoke to her. She had been there nearly an hour when three shots were heard and she crumpled up in the chair. She had hidden a revolver under her heavy fur coat before she fired, so that no one could stop her. Dr. Richard Townsend, house physician at the Ansonia, attended her before she was taken to the hospital.

Mrs. Pauli returned from Europe only a few days ago. She had been in ill health for some time.

Mr. Pauli is an importer of chinaware and has an office at 78 Wall street. He said his wife had appeared as cheerful as usual all day. She went out between 5 and 6 o'clock, he said, without telling any one where she was going, and the next he heard from her was when he got a telephone message from the hospital.

ALMIRALL JURYMEN SUE FOR $6,000 PAY

Court Action Taken Because Officials Turned Down Bills for 110 Days Service.

After waiting more than twenty-two months for their fees, amounting to about $6,000, the twenty-three members of the Extraordinary Grand Jury empaneled in August, 1919, with Raymond F. Almirall as foreman, have started mandamus proceedings in the Supreme Court against the city of New York. Their move is said to be without precedent among such judicial bodies anywhere in the country.

An order signed by Justice George V. Mullen, it was learned yesterday, has been served on Comptroller Craig and City Chamberlain Berolzheimer directing them to show cause in Supreme Court Friday why they should not audit and pay Lawrence W. Mack of 1 Madison avenue for his 110 days of service at the statutory rate of $5 a day.

Mr. Mack was secretary of the jury. Arthur Frank of 2 Rector street, who represents him in the mandamus, is attorney for the other members of the jury.

A little more than a year ago the members of the jury were barred by the Grand Jury Board from further service as grand jurors for a term of three years. They were charged with wasting public funds and misusing their powers as jurors.

A week after the announcement of their suspension from jury service the City Chamberlain issued a statement explaining his refusal to audit the bills and suggesting that suit upon the claims of the jurors "would be a good way to get all the questions involved before the proper tribunal and have them settled."

Mr. Berolzheimer said that the bill was made "from pencil memoranda made by the secretary of the Grand Jury, scattering and fragmentary notes concerning all that time spent in pursuit of the 'overshadowing crime' and other bugaboos and in pursuance of a palpably partisan purpose."

LAST OF MOONSHINE OUTLAWS A CAPTIVE

Fugitive of Ballard Gang, Accused of Three Killings, Wounded, Caught.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD, LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 16.—Charles Ballard, last of the moonshiners to remain at large.

The new posse was under the direction of Samuel Collins, State prohibition director, who instructed his men to exterminate, if necessary, the Ballards and their followers. The capture of Charles was the outcome. He was badly wounded in yesterday's fighting.

Tonight his father, Jeff Ballard, 60; Albert Ballard, another son; Henry Refitt, 21; Will Ferguson and Joe Clem, neighbors of the Ballards, are in jail here. With five men held on various charges in connection with the recent events in Menifee county, with Bob Ballard dead and Charles captured the present phase of the moonshine war in Menifee county is ended.

Warrants have been issued charging the Ballards, in jail here, with moonshining and other warrants will charge all the prisoners with resisting officers in the exercise of their duty and with assisting a fugitive for whom the officers held a warrant to escape.

The battles with the moonshiners began last Saturday, when Agent R. E. Duff was killed in a raid on a still belonging to the Ballards. The next day David Treadway, member of a posse hunting Duff's slayer, was shot and killed from ambush.

BED SMOKER OF 80 GONE AS PAL IS SHOT

Housekeeper Hears Altercation About Chamber Etiquette, Then Gun Report.

Richard Weston, aged 80, and Michael O'Neill, aged 80, two hallroom boys, who for the last month lived peacefully in their room at 193 Maiden lane, agreed on virtually every subject or importance except whether a pipe could be smoked in bed without violating any of the rules of bedroom etiquette.

O'Neill, whose whiskers are so long and white and his expression so benevolent that he hires out as Santa Claus every Christmas, contended that it was all right to smoke a pipe in bed, and he did so. Weston held that it was wrong.

Mrs. Al Olsen, who acts as caretaker of the building, said that late Friday night she heard an argument about pipe smoking.

"You got to quit smoking that damned pipe in bed," said the voice of Weston. "This is my home and I don't want it set on fire or messed up by your old pipe. You can quit smoking in bed or get out of here in the morning."

Mrs. Olsen heard no more until yesterday morning, when she was awakened by a shot. Weston came out of his room, his cheek bleeding, and with O'Neill right behind him. She called the police and an ambulance. O'Neill vanished. Weston was taken to Beekman Street Hospital, where it was said his wound was not serious.

REGIMENT WILL BROADCAST.

The 1st Infantry, New York National Guard, will have charge of the broadcasting program of WEAF, the radio station of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, at 8 o'clock Monday night. Music by the regimental band and a talk by Col. J. Nellis Wells, commanding the regiment, in an effort to obtain recruits, will be the features of the program.
